

Are you a driven professional who believes in making a difference in your community by working together with peers toward a common goal? *Then we want to talk to you!

The Young Professionals Council (YPC) is a philanthropy group that works together in support of the Joe Andruzzi Foundation's (JAF) mission. JAF is committed to providing financial assistance to cover non-medical needs that patients and caregivers impacted by cancer often find themselves unable to afford – including housing, utilities, transportation and food.

JAF's Young Professionals Council is a unique opportunity for young professionals who have a passion to make a difference and the leadership potential to advocate on behalf of the Foundation. By connecting emerging leaders eager to support the work of JAF, the mission of this group is to cultivate a greater awareness of JAF, while providing its members with valuable opportunities to build connections with peers in new networks, develop leadership skills, and give back through volunteer opportunities.

Benefits

Connect

Join others eager to support the JAF mission and help New England cancer patients.

Commit

Give back through volunteer opportunities and council membership.

Create

Build valuable connections with professional peers from diverse networks.

Membership begins with a gift of $25 per month. In making your gift, you support the critical work of JAF and join a group of peers, just like you, who want to give back and make a lasting impact in the lives of those fighting cancer.

Throughout the year, YPC members will plan and execute fun social gatherings, networking events, and volunteer experiences. These activities will engage current JAF ambassadors and encourage new JAF supporters, to broaden awareness of JAF's mission and deepen its impact.
